

Rochester Minimalists

A local group of like-minded individuals looking to share ideas, support one another in the practice of minimalism and have a positive impact on each other as well as the environment....Want to learn more?

Rochester Minimalists present "Minimize Your Wardrobe"

Join us for a panel discussion about the capsule wardrobe concept and other alternatives to reducing your closet chaos, and how to curb your urge to shop!

When: Monday, November 6 from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Where: Dress for Success, 47 State Street, Rochester, NY 14614

* Monetary donations for Dress for Success are encouraged but not required

About the panelists:

Andrea Bonawitz is the sole Personal Image Consultant behind Andrea Bonawitz Image Consulting and the stylist owner of Parlour, a boutique hair salon in the Rochester Neighborhood of the Arts. Her passion is educating and empowering women to create their own personal style identity. As a new homeowner, young mom, business owner, and lover of small, perfectly planned spaces, Andrea has been putting her ability to organize and minimize to the test this year. She spends her down time fashion/beauty blogging and treasure hunting for vintage/consignment fashion and furniture.

Justine Smith is the creator, editor and writer of the blog The Thrifty Girl's Guide. Her spending habits waver somewhere between a raging shopaholic and a cautious penny pincher. A wannabe minimalist with a weakness for polka dots, she's gradually reducing her wardrobe by striving for quality over quantity. She's a vegan, obsessed with Taylor Swift, and just like Nick Miller, she likes getting older because she's finally aging into her personality.

Sarah Facci has been an aspiring minimalist for 5 years. She got started on the wardrobe downsizing journey after getting involved in the community surrounding the blog Recovering Shopaholic. These days she

Join us on Meetup.com

<http://www.meetup.com/Minimalism-org-Rochester/>

Join us on Facebook

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/rochesterminimalists/>